About Noble Airmen—
And Crime and Graft—
And Russian Gold—
And Swimmers from the Sea

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN THE AIR race from Los Angeles to Chicago, Wylie Post of Oklahoma beat Lee Schoenhair by just 13 seconds. Very close for a race more than half way across the continent.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie won the Dixie Derby Flight of the great Chicago air meeting.

The energetic Captain von Gronau thinks he will "hop out there," land on Lake Michigan with his sea plane and see the great Chicago meeting.

He surely ought to go, and so ought you, if you can.

A fine young man is Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, who came from Germany via Iceland, Greenland and Halifax, more than 4,000 miles, in forty-seven hours of flying time, stopping on the way for fuel.

He will live to make that and longer flights in one "hop," and to cross the ocean in twenty hours.

ANIMOSITIES DIE OUT. Fliers of our army and navy welcome a Gronau who only a few years ago had his mind concentrated on bombing our ships and those of our allies.

He tells interesting, simple stories of his experience in the war and the various occasions on which he and his airplane were "shot down."

He ought to meet our crack American war flier, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, who brought down more German planes than any other American. Perhaps he was one of those that had the honor of bringing down the genial Gronau.

After the war Von Gronau went back to farmnig on his estate in Prussia, and then started a flying school. He flew over here to give one of his pupils a really good lesson.

Mayor Walker, head of the biggest, richest city in the world, invites approximately 100 conspicuous citizens to discuss privately conditions, of graft, bribery, etc.

The mayor is in earnest and has every reason to be.

But 100 or 100,000 "leading citizens" could not deal with graft, bribery and crime while bootlegging and its allied trades take in yearly a bigger income than that of the United States government.

MOST STARTLING in the revelations of New York corruption, which include purchasing of public officials, magistrates, judges, etc., is the statement that one judge paid $200,000 for his seat on the bench.

The amount would be about $5,000 more than the total salary that he could earn in his 14-year term.

This means that some one else supplied the $200,000, and common sense indicates that the "somebody else" must have been a boss criminal, able, with the aid of a judge "owned by him," to get back his $200,000, with interest.

It is a strange picture of American civilization and "good government" in the year of our Lord 1930 and the eleventh year of the era of prohibition and bootlegging.

'END MAN DAYS' DEAR TO MARION MINSTREL VET

Charles Gano, Former Headliner, Recalls Association with Stage Stars.

"GENTLEMEN, be seated." These three words spoken in a theater today would likely sound meaningless to some in the audience. To the old time legitimate show patrons they would awaken memories and to the old trouper would be a voice from the grave.

These were the words usually spoken by the interlocutor just after the minstrel company, in blackface makeup and colorful suits, danced out in front of the footlights for a two or three hour session of singing, dancing, jokes and the oleo, in the days when the legitimate stage was in full bloom and the names of Lew Dockstader, Al G. Fields, Coburn, Hi Henry and others were household words and their jokes were remembered long after the troupe had left town Today there isn't a minstrel show on the road.

Trouping with a minstrel show in the old days was a happy and interesting part of the life of a showman, as instances recalled by Charles Gano, headliner in the business for years, will prove. Mr. Gano

NEW SAFETY RULES RESULT FROM CRASH

Coroner Acts After Two Die in Accident at National Air Races.

By The Associated Press

CURTISS - REYNOLDS AIRPORT, CHICAGO, Aug. 28—New safety rules went into effect at the National air races today as the result of the accident which cost two lives yesterday.

In hopes of preventing any further tragedies such as occurred when a racing navy plane fell near hundreds of spectators, County Coroner Herman Bundesen ordered two large blocks of bleachers either torn down or left unoccupied.

The bleachers are near the pylon where racing planes swing around the field and not far from where the navy plane fell yesterday, killing the pilot, Lieut. J. P. Deshazo, and Louis Weiner, a race concessionaire.

Low Flying Banned

The coroner also decreed that racers must finish their dashes in normal positions, instead of zooming up over the bleachers in sharp turns back to the landing field. His third stipulation was that no planes may fly at a low altitude over the crowds.

Stunt fliers, including the foreign aces who have thrilled crowds daily with their exhibitions, were ordered to stay out over the landing field hereafter.

A committee of navy pilots investigated the crash of Lieut. Deshazo's plane. It barely missed bleachers filled with spectators and some of Deshazo's brother pilots believe he deliberately maneuvered his ship to bring about his own death rather than have his plane drop among the horror stricken onlookers. Seven persons were injured by flying parts and burning oil as the plane's gasoline tank exploded, but none of them was believed seriously hurt.

Look for Lindberghs

The prospects of seeing Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh drew spectators and officials alike to the airport earlier than usual. Field executives, not knowing when the Lindberghs might hop off after their overnight stop at Columbus, O., took no chances of allowing the famous couple to arrive unwelcomed. The Lindberghs left

WOMAN, HUSBAND DIE IN MURDER, SUICIDE

Police Believe Man Shoots Wife, Then Turns Gun on Self.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Acquitted two years ago of the slaying of her second husband, Mrs. Frances Kirkwood Van Clief, 34 years old, was shot and killed last night by her third husband, Eugene Van Clief who then committed suicide.

This was the theory of police based on a note found after the two bodies were discovered in a Brooklyn rooming house. The note addressed to Ida Van Clief, a daughter by a previous marriage, read:

"Please forgive me for what I have done. It is the best way out. Your Dad Eugene."

The note was found in a furnished room hired by Van Clief.

Police learned Van Clief who married Mrs. Kirkwood a year ago, recently had met financial reverses in a roadside stand he conducted. Prior to discovery of the note, police were inclined to believe the woman shot the man and then took her own life. A pistol from which four shots had been fired was found near her hand.

The woman's second husband, Dr. Glenn Kirkwood, a veterinarian, was stabbed to death in their home in Queens. At her trial on a charge of manslaughter she said the veterinarian was killed accidentally in the struggle for the weapon with which she intended to commit suicide.

Her first husband was John A. McAvoy, a textile designer, whom she divorced.

The shooting occured at Miss Novak's home where Marschalek had gone to plead for a renewal of his friendship with the girl. Miss Novak has only a slight chance for recovery, physicians said.

HUNDREDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO CHANEY

Film Notables and Admiring Laymen Pass Before Bier of Famed Actor.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 28—The notables of the movie world and hundreds of admiring laymen prepared today to accompany the body of Lon Chaney on its last journey.

From the little chapel of a funeral parlor the distinguished character actor's body will be taken after impressive but simple services, to be buried beside his father in Forest Lawn cemetery, Glendale, this afternoon.

Hundreds Pass Bier

Hundreds of citizens, singly or by twos and threes, filed past the silver bronze casket yesterday to pay final respects to the man whose private life was as simple, unostentatious and quiet as the screen characters which brought him fame were weird, grotesque and memorable. In this same setting, a few months ago, rested the body of Mabel Normand, and a few years before, that of Rudolph Valentino, who, like Chaney, was cut off at the height of his career.

Honorary pallbearers represented a cross-section of the "Who's Who" of filmland, including Louis B. Mayer, Nicholas Schenck, Irving G. Thalberg, Hunt Stromberg, Paul Bern, Tod Browning, Chaney's director, Harry Carey, Lionel Barrymore, Ramon Novarro, William Haines, Lawrence Tibbett, Lew Cody, Cliff Edwards, Harry Rapf, Fred Niblo, Benny Rubin, Wallace Beery, George Hill and Edgar Selwyn.

Industry To Suspend

The entire motion picture industry arranged to suspend work at 3 p. m. when the funeral cortege was due at the cemetery, to honor his memory for two minutes. All business activity in every Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer office throughout the world was ordered stopped for two minutes.

At the local M-G-M studios, where Chaney was shortly to have begun his second talking picture, the United States Marine Corps reserve, of which the actor was an honorary member, has arranged to lower a flag and fire a salute as taps are sounded in his honor.

Numerous deaf mutes were among those who came to the chapel, Chaney having been an especial hero to them, not only because one or two of his most memorable screen characters were thus afflicted, but because both his parents were deaf-mutes.

Veteran Stands Guard

A touching sight at the chapel was the grief of a battered veteran of the World war, on whose breast gleamed row upon row of decorations. Throughout the day this veteran, Sergeant Frank McClouskey kept vigil beside the casket, near which was his own floral offering.

McClouskey met Chaney seven years ago. Chaney sent McClouskey to a hospital for an operation which partially cured his paralysis.

RIOT LEADER FORMS JUNTA

Sanchez Cerro, Who Led Revolt Against Peru President, Now in Control.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 28—A new military government, headed by Lieutenant Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who last week initiated the revolutionary movement at Arequipa, assumed complete control in Peru today.

A new junta, headed by Sanchez Cerro, was formed and sworn in. It displaced both the vestiges of the 11 year dictatorship of the deposed president, Augusto B. Legula, and the junta of General Manuel Marie Ponce, members of which Monday forced the president's resignation.

Arrives By Plane

Arriving by airplane yesterday from Arequipa the lieutenant colonel received an ovation from hundreds of his countrymen. He landed to the strains of the national anthem and was lifted to the shoulders of admirers and carried nearly three miles.

At the government house he appeared on a balcony and thanked the populace for the demonstration saying he was convinced he had done his duty by revolting against the Legula government.

An hour after the address, followed by his new ministers—whom he calls secretaries—he entered the reception hall where the new junta was sworn in.

Sancho Cerro is president in the new junta, Major Alejandro, secretary of war and Colonel Ernesto Montague, foreign secretary.

The Lima Press today published three wireless messages in which Legula, ill, aboard the Almirante, since he fled the city Monday, ordered the flying forces at Las Palmas training school to go to Ancon, Panama, "in view of the fact

BRANDS LOVE THEFT SUIT AS BLACKMAIL

State Legislator Kyle Ross Says He Is Prepared for Trial.

By International News Service

AKRON, O., Aug. 28—Branding the $50,000 love theft suit brought against him by Mrs. Cora Breckenride, 26, ex-wife of Cecil Breckenride, Ross Brothers Electrical Co. employe, as a "form of political blackmail," Kyle Ross, state legislator, declared today that he "will be prepared to deal with this ridiculous charge."

Mrs. Breckenridge's suit alleges that Ross called on Mrs. Breckenridge at her home in the absence of her husband and "wrongfully and maliciously attempted to induce and entice her to have illicit relations with him."

Charging gross neglect, Breckenridge was granted a divorce from his wife on Aug. 12. He was given the custody of their two children, Kyle Ross Breckenridge, 5, and Ada May Breckenridge, 7. The Breckenridges had been married eight years at the time of their divorce.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 28—The plaintiffs in the suit to enjoin the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube with the Bethlehem Steel Corp. rested their case today, nine weeks after the hearing opened and the defense opened with an attempt to prove, through its own auditing witnesses that the terms of the merger were fair.

Meanwhile Judge David G. Jenkins awaited an answer to his request that S. Livingston Mather and William G. Mather, Cleveland steel and ore men, appear in court to answer some questions which the judge believe have an important bearing on the case.

OHIO BUSINESS NOT AS BAD AS BELIEVED

Announcement by Ohio Bankers' Association at Least Says So.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28—The Ohio Bankers Association today announced that government figures for the spring and up to midsummer, indicate the general business decrease and unfavorable crop predictions in the state not as bad as generally believed.

During the period, the combined deposits of all banks increased $27,876,830, and a large part of the increase was in savings deposits. Total resources of banks, despite a number of mergers, decreased only $4,750,000, leaving Ohio bank resources at $3,276,588,256. "The showing is unusually favorable," said the report.

Cash and reserves carried by all Ohio banks increased $24,226,000, the total being $370,111,019. Fewer commercial transactions, due to general conditions, were reflected in the decrease of $55,016,000 in loans and discounts. Total loans and discounts were $1,961,079,595. The banks, it was reported, are reducing their own borrowings to a marked degree, the curtailment being about three per cent in obligations.

CHURCH WILL DECIDE MERGER AT BUCYRUS

Central German Conference Will Open Annual Session Next Week at Bucyrus.

Merging of the Central German conference of the Methodist Episcopal church with the contiguous Methodist conferences will be the outstanding question to be brought before the sixty-seventh annual session of the Central German conference next week at Bucyrus.

The question of the joining of the English and German conferences was discussed a year ago when the conference was in annual session at Evansville, Ind. At that time a commission was appointed to make a study of the conference situation and report its findings this year, together with recommendations.

The report of the commission, appointed by Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, will be made Thursday or Friday of next week at Bucyrus. A report sent out by the commission to pastors in the Central German conference has been favorable to the consolidation.

Will Make Transfer

If the recommendations of the commission are adopted at Bucyrus, the Central German conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church will transfer its churches and ministers to 10 of the English Methodist Episcopal conferences.

The transfer of German churches to English conferences will result in the following distribution:

Twenty charges, including the Prospect Street M. E. church here, will go to the Ohio conference of which Epworth and Wesley churches are members; 16 to the Indiana conference; 12 to the Northeast Ohio Conference; 11 to the Detroit conference; six to the Michigan conference; four to the Kentucky conference; three to the Pittsburgh conference; two to the Northwest Indiana conference; one to the West Virginia conference, and one to the Central Tennessee conference.

Move Favored Here

The Prospect Street M. E. church here in a recent quarterly meeting voted in favor of the merger.

Bishop Nicholson will preside at conference, which opens Tuesday and continues through Sunday, Sept. 7, with a lay conference session Friday and Saturday. The church conference will be at the Lincoln Way M. E. church.

Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect street church, will offer the prayer opening the conference.

A fellowship dinner, with Rev. Emil I. Klotz, pastor of the host church as toastmaster, will open the conference Tuesday at 5:30 p. m. A meeting of conference stewards and executive committee of the Preachers' Mutual Aid society will be at 2 p .m.

Arthur Schuler, mayor of Bucyrus, Rev. J. W. Dowds, president of the Bucyrus Ministerial association, and John C. Durr, pastor of the Lincoln Way church, will welcome the pastors and attendants at the conference. Dr. Timothy A. Speckman of Toledo will respond.

Rev. Patow will give the opening prayer Tuesday at 8 p. m. Dr. Frank T. Endris of Covington, Ky., will deliver the conference sermon

Male Chorus To Sing

A feature of the sessions will be music by the conference male chorus, a group of more than 80 ministers, of which Rev. Patow is a member.

Holy Communion services will be conducted Wednesday at 8:30 a. m., followed by memorial services in memory of those ministers or their wives who have died since the last annual conference. Dr. A. J. Bucher

TILBY SMITH GETS STAY OF SENTENCE

Appeals Court Reverses Conviction; Claim Constitutional Rights Violated.

By The Associated Press

JEFFERSON, O., Aug. 28—The spectre of death in the electric chair was temporarily removed today for Tilby Smith, 28-year-old Ashtabula truck driver convicted of plotting the murder of his wife so that he might run away with another woman.

The district court of appeals late yesterday reversed Smith's conviction on the ground that his constitutional right to waive trial by jury was violated. Smith's counsel requested at his trial that the jury be dispensed with and Judge Charles R. Sargent alone hear the case, but the judge refused to accept the waiver and ordered a trial by jury.

County Prosecutor Howard M. Nasor announced he would appeal the reversal to the state supreme court. Observers believed this would automatically defer a retrial.

Smith was convicted last July 18 and was placed in the death row at Ohio penitentiary. He was charged with having engineered the shooting to death of his wife, Clara, 28, May 20 by Mrs. Maude Lowther, 32, Ashtabula housewife with whom he had become enamored only 10 days before the killing.

Mrs. Lowther, alleged to have confessed firing all shots aside from suicide, is a married man where the fatalities had driven, is awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge. She was to be arraigned in the court next month.

DENIES ANY KNOWLEDGE OF JEWEL THEFT

Testifies That Maid Gave Him Gems To Trade for New Automobile.

FINAL WITNESSES HEARD

Argument of Attorneys in Court Will Complete Case Late Today.

The case of William Hatcher, charged with receiving stolen property, went to a jury in common pleas court today at 2:30 p. m.

Hatcher was charged by the state with having received jewels valued at $3,400 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Watters of 1133 East Center street early in June.

The jury which began deliberations at 2:30 p. m. is made up of four women and eight men. They received their final instructions from Judge George B. Scofield after final arguments were given by both Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donithen and W. P. Moloney for the prosecution and L. E. Myers for the defense.

Hatcher took the stand in his defense this morning and was the target of an avalanche of questions from both sides. He maintained he had been given the jewels by Miss Bessie Bibler, maid in the Watters home, who Tuesday was found guilty of grand larceny in connection with the theft.

Traded For Auto

Miss Bibler gave him the jewels, he said, to trade for an automobile. He engineered the trade with a firm of used car dealers in Bellefontaine, bringing back an Erskine sedan and $100, he told the jury. He declared he became suspicious of the origin of the jewels, which he claimed the maid had told him were given as part payment for a farm she had possessed recently.

Once his suspicions were aroused, Hatcher declared in court, he went to Bellefontaine to get back the jewels but was told by E. A. and Alexander Switzer, with whom he had dealt for the car, that the diamond rings he had traded had been sold elsewhere and that it was impossible to get them together again.

The Switzers told on the stand yesterday that they were unaware the jewelry was stolen and that they had traded automobiles frequently for jewelry as part payment.

When Miss Bibler and Hatcher were arrested and the jewels traced, the Switzers made hurried trips to round the jewelry together again and then turned it over to Marion police, they testified.

The robbery occurred early in

CLEANUP DEMANDED BY CANTON MAYOR

Letter to Safety Director Flays Present Police Force: Wants Change.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Aug. 28 — Mayor Herman R. Witter of Canton today demanded a cleanup of the city police department in a letter to George F. Schoner, safety director.

Declaring that "something vital is lacking" in the organization of the police department in which no arrests have been made in vocks on beats which are "abnormally below the level of common decency," Mayor Witter has ordered Schoner to drop some of his other duties and devote himself to a thorough cleanup of the police force.

Director Schoner said he will comply with the mayor's request and as a first step he spent today with Chief of Police Earl W. Heasmer at which the demand for a cleanup was repeated to the active police head.

"Whatever a doubt concerning is wrong," Director Schoner was quoted as saying, "and my duty is to find out what is the remedy the trouble. I [illegible] with police work on [illegible] who have no [illegible] the same time there are many honest men who [illegible] to put on the force.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, August 29

A day of substantial progress and achievement may be predicated upon the testimony of several excellent sidereal positions, and this despite some worries and vexatious circumstances. Old congestions may be dissipated, making way for steady growth in the direction of gratifying fruition of cherished aims. It is a time for pushing diligently toward these goals. Be careful of signing papers and be amiable in speech. Personal affairs are also pleasantly aspected.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid fruition of industry and application, which willb e rewarded with steady growth and assured financial success. But be careful in signing papers and in curbing the tongue and temper. The purely personal contacts may also be pleasant and profitable.

A child born on this day should be steady, industrious and ambitious and should eventually realize its ambitions after some vexations and annoyances. Its domestic, social and affectional affiliations should be gratifying and prominent as well.

UNDER the non-skid tread of these famous Firestone Tires is a double breaker of two plies of cord fabric anchored in cushion rubber. This special construction absorbs road shocks—protects against punctures and blowouts—provides the foundation for the thick, tough tread with deeper grooves—giving longer non-skid wear.

OTHER makes of tires have only a single breaker of old-fashioned square woven fabric which Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire. Some makes do not have any breaker at all. The Firestone Tire is set apart as an "All Cord Tire".

G. A. R. MAY REELECT FOSTER COMMANDER

Move Starts at National Encampment To Retain Chief Another Year.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 28—A move was under way to reelect Commander-in-chief Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., at the election of officers of the Grand Army of the Republic today.

Four candidates were in the field, but it was said friends of Commander Foster would like to see him at the helm another year. Such a move would require the approval of the commander, himself, but he did not commit himself.

Of the avowed candidates, Samuel P. Town, past department commander of Pennsylvania and assistant quartermaster general of the G. A. R., was believed to have the inside track, with James R. Jewell, the Colorado representative on the national council of administration and a past senior vice commander of that department, a close second.

The election was the only important business remaining before the sixty-fourth encampment of the veterans. Tomorrow they will pay homage to the man who led them to victory by visiting General Grant's birthplace at Point Pleasant, O., and then will not meet again until next year's reunion at Des Moines, Ia.

MAY GET POST

Should the senate fail to approve President Hoover's nomination of Nicholas Roosevelt for the post of Vice Governor of the Philippines, it is considered likely that Arthur F. Fischer (above), director of forestry, will succeed to the post. It is expected that both Americans and Filipinos would pool their efforts to obtain Fischer's appointment.

2 PERMITS ISSUED

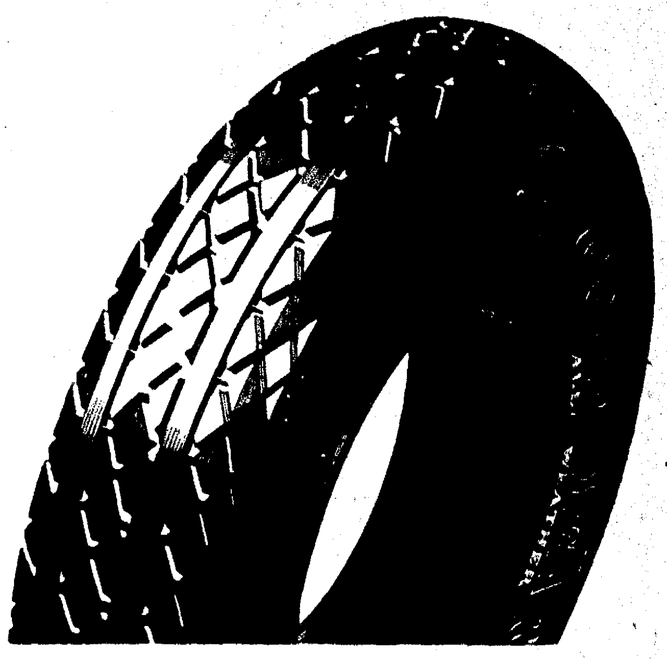
NOW!—New and Greater values



in Goodyear Tires than ever before!

That headline is strictly true.

Two bed-rock reasons make it true.

One reason is, Goodyear Tires are better right now than they have ever been.

The other reason is, rubber is cheap and consequently Goodyear Tires are available at the lowest prices in history.

People are not slow to seize a chance like this.

They are buying Goodyear Tires at an unparalleled rate.

Their preference for Goodyears rests upon definite Goodyear superiorities in both tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

Now is the time to get YOURS

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

You are not asked to believe these statements without proof.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

And the great fact certainly is this: More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

That is true of the people who buy new cars.

It is true of people who buy replacement tires from dealers.

It is true of buses which carry passengers—more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

It is true also of trucks—more Goodyear Truck Tires are made and sold than any other kind.

Year after year, throughout the world, the number continually increases. Millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Goodyear values are matchlessly high—tire prices are matchlessly low. This is the year to ride on Goodyears—now is the time to get yours.

A New Queen.

There isn't any doubt but that Americans were glad to see Miss Betty Nuthall win the American tennis title held by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody for six of the last seven years. Miss Nuthall's finals victory over Mrs. Anna Virginia McCune Harper, of San Francisco, was clean cut, hard fought and well earned.

It is the same attitude that would make victory by Sir Thomas Lipton in the America Cup race welcome—this good feeling toward the successful foreign challenger. It isn't any fun to win all the time, just as it isn't any fun to lose all the time. The monotony takes away the pleasure. It would add immeasurably to the competition for the Hundred Guineas cup in yacht racing if England would win this year; it has added to the attractions of the woman's tennis championship by having an English contestant win it for a change.

Mrs. Moody, who did not choose to participate in the matches this year, always has been a popular champion, but in her attitude was nothing of the joy of winning which might have been there had not the championship been hers so often. No one knows just why she did not participate this year; as good a guess as any is that she preferred to let the championship go to some one else for the sport of trying to regain it next year.

New faces in the ranks of the champions can do a great deal to dispel the appearance of a closed corporation which some championships undoubtedly have. That of twenty-year-old Betty Nuthall, who says she would rather sew than play tennis anyway, is a cheerful one

A French flier leaped from his plane to death to prove his affection for his sweetheart, with whom he had quarreled. All he proved, however, was that he had a soft head.

A party of Americans reports the discovery of another hitherto unknown Aztec pyramid in the state of Vera Cruz, Mexico. It will not take many more American digging parties down there to restore pretty much all of Mexico to readiness for husbandry.

It has come to light that a San Francisco boys' correctional school run by the city has a staff of twenty-two—a principal, five teachers and sixteen attendants—and but nine students. Still, "the boys" must be looked after. Party patriotism must be recognized.

Dean Inge says that "socialism will only be possible when all men are perfect," from which we judge that as a perfect-working proposition it is still some eons away.

A Chicago jury has awarded a verdict of $8,500 to a citizen up there for the injury of one of his eyes sustained when he was struck by a golf ball driven by an expert who was giving an exhibition in one of the city's big department stores. It's an easy guess that future exhibitions of the kind up there will be pulled off in the open.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, holds that the present business depression is more mental than real, as the buying power of the people has not decreased. Undoubtedly, the psychology of fear has much to do with the present situation, but so long as that fear exists its effects will be just about as bad as they would be were there real ground for it.

Science of Cooling Goes Ahead.

Great have been the strides made in the science of refrigeration since the first piece of meat was packed in snow to preserve it. About 1880 manufactured ice was first used in refrigerators and the electric refrigerators made their appearance about 1914. From 1914 to 1924, about 10,000 of these electric refrigerators were sold while in 1929 there were 630,000 sold, or an average of 10,000 in four days.

The newest development in the refrigeration industry is "dry ice," frozen carbon dioxide gas. The chief fault found with this ice is that it freezes the objects with which it comes in contact and cannot be handled safely with the bare hands.

But the science of refrigeration has not been developed only with a view toward providing a means of preserving foods. Two hundred and twenty industries and businesses find use for refrigeration in some manner. Carbon dioxide snow is used in the removal of birthmarks, and even the manufacture of chewing gum finds use for refrigeration. Engineers freeze the water in treacherous strata of quicksand to sink shafts through the dangerous spots. Growers of mushrooms and operators of fur storage houses find refrigeration a great help to them in their businesses.

The American Institute of Refrigeration, the federal departments of commerce and agriculture all are conducting extensive researches into the refrigeration industry, truly a vast and valuable business springing from the typically American determination to master whatever it encounters.

$125,000,000 for Play.

Miniature golf courses, the department of commerce suggests, represent an outlay of approximately $125,000,000 in the United States. Estimating the number of courses to be 25,000, each one represents, therefore, an average expenditure of $5,000.

Various persons and groups have benefited from the popularity of miniature golf. Stone masons, electricians, landscape gardeners, skilled cement workers, unskilled laborers and the far-sighted gentlemen who saw the craze on its way and suggested cottonseed hulls for greens are among the apparent beneficiaries. Persistent rumors have suggested others; their identities are not definite. Benefits have been distributed, of course, in varying proportions. One course in Los Angeles is valued at $65,000. Others represent only a few hundreds of dollars, even in the present inflated market.

When the snow falls, miniature golf may move inside. Entrepreuners in non-freezing climates then will have something to be truly thankful for. But the move will mean more work again—no stone masons, no landscape gardeners, no diggers, perhaps, but work for someone. Next spring, the department of commerce can estimate again what the benefits to the country at large were.

Will miniature golf last long enough to get back the $125,000,000, more or less, required to put it where it is today? The sudden collapse of mah jong, a parlor game barren of attractions such as those which are miniature golf's, may indicate nothing as to its eventual destiny but there certainly is room for a question concerning who is going to handle the interest on that $125,000,000—and the additions to it that are being made every day. There may even be room for a suggestion that every market reaches a saturation point—and that 25,000 miniature golf courses is rather large production at $5,000 per unit.

The American Tree association has uttered a nationwide appeal for the planting of trees as a memorial to George Washington. Offhand, we assume that cherry trees are to be planted.

The Moscow papers tell of the receipt of $100 from a scrubwoman out in Los Angeles, her savings of a year or two, for the advance of "the cause." Of course, should illness come to her, if such a woman exists, she will naturally depend on an American charitable institution or the charitable people of Los Angeles to see her through.

Complying with the terms of the London naval treaty, the United States will sell or scrap 400,000 tons of warships in commission at the beginning of the present year. That should lighten the public burden a bit, and believe us, it still will stand a lot of lightening!

Report from Cincinnati has the Rev. Herbert Bigelow feeling that the best interests of the state demand his presence in the general assembly. Let's see! Wasn't the Rev. Herbert one of the leading figures in the Ohio constitutional convention which handicapped the state with its present basic law?

A lecturer at the University of Cambridge complains that Great Britain is "patrolling and policing" all parts of the world, in great part for American trade. Isn't that the limit, when he knows and everybody knows that Britain would fight rather than surrender the job to any other nation?

A survey made in New York City, of traffic conditions on streets, avenues and bridges, demonstrated that the maximum speed of vehicular traffic in the city was fourteen miles an hour and the minimum six. How long will the most populous city in speed-mad America be content with such traffic movements as indicated by this survey?

On to London.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Americans are fond of poking fun at Europeans who make a flying visit to the United States and then go home and write a book about it. It might seem equally presumptuous to try to condense a story of London into this space, so let it be understood that this is merely an endeavor to touch the high spots, to mention briefly some of the things the tourist should find interesting in this city of individuality and personality.

Somebody once said that if you sit in front of the Cafe de la Paix long enough you will see everybody you know go by. If you post yourself in Trafalgar square in London you won't have to wait long to see a kaleidoscope of English life from the limousine of the rich or the noble to the coster cart of the cockney. And you will see all the intermediate stages of life in London. The motor of the fashionable is hurrying to Mayfair, the donkey cart of the coster is bound to Covent Garden market or Billingsgate. Each is intent upon its own business and has a proper respect for the other.

Lord Nelson's monument dominates Trafalgar square and the pedestal of the monument is the mecca of every man or woman in London with a speech to be got rid of. Hither comes the radical, who mounts the pedestal and says the most shocking things about his country. A small crowd, with nothing more important to do and not in the least in sympathy with the speaker, gives him a hearing and then listlessly turns away. It is the right, the inalienable right of the Englishman, to free speech which controls the crowd. But let that speaker come down off his forum and say the same things, and that same crowd would send him to the hospital. That is what an Englishman means when he refers to freedom of speech—it is not merely a high-sounding theory.

What a cow-puncher would call a milling herd, only these are pedestrians, is moving constantly in Trafalgar square. There is always a large percentage of the unemployed who desert their benches of the night on the Victoria embankment for a little while in the square. Provincials from the "shires" having a look at London and easily identified by their broad accents. And always the army of women who sell "buttonholes," as the Englishman calls the flower he sports in his coat. Patiently they sit, wrapped in their plaid shawls, little bonnets, such as Queen Victoria is always pictured as wearing, perched on top of their heads and tied under the chin with ribbons. No flappers, these.

And through it all the constant stream of vehicles, for Trafalgar square is the heart of London in more ways than one. From it run the arteries to Charing Cross, the Haymarket, Pall Mall, Whitehall and the Strand.

CITIES SPREAD OUT.

In some American cities the electric street railways are giving way to motor buses. H. S. Bridges, of the New Hampshire public service commission, said at Concord the other day that buses have almost completely replaced streetcars in the cities of that state. Concord, Manchester, Berlin and part of Nassau are the only municipalities now having electric car service, and the Nassau Street Railway company asks the commission for authority to abandon the remaining streetcar service in that city and substitute buses.

But transportation conditions in the old cities of New England differ from the newer cities of the West. The older cities are more compactly built, and, lacking rapid growth in recent decades, have not sprawled over the landscape as have so many western cities.

Spokane, for instance, is spread over 26,547 acres, but Boston covers only 30,598; Cambridge, with 125,000 of population, covers only 4,150 acres; Newark, New Jersey, with 475,000 people, has little more than half the area of Spokane

But Los Angeles—there's a city of magnificent distances—claiming 1,500,000 population, has drawn into its far-extended corporation 282,424 acres. That is nearly 100,000 acres more than New York has taken in.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

PICTURE-WRITING FOR MODERNS.

In the pre-Gutenberg days signs for shops and inns were made legible to an illiterate clientele by means of pictures. The boot at the cobbler's door identified it, and there was no mistaking the White Horse tavern for the King George's Head inn. With the spread of learning to the masses, the old signs disappeared. But in recent years the graphic method of marking a business is coming back, and in a big way.

In California, where everything from trees to cities grows on a giant scale, the process reaches its high point. An entire shop becomes a sign for its wares. Ice-cream is bought at small stores fashioned like an ice-cream freezer, with its long crank swinging round to attract the customer's attention. Some soda fountains are housed in mountains of white stucco. Soft drinks can be bought at counters set in the sides of immense barrels, or at booths which are perfect oranges or lemons. A restaurant called the Brown Derby does all that is architecturally possible to resemble a Brobdingnagian bowler. And a dining room serving sea food is concealed in a mammoth stucco and plaster sea monster.

Here is a development in building which makes New York's setback skyscrapers look conservative. As an aid to the illiterate it rivals the tabloids and the talkies.—New York Times.

THE NEW CENSORSHIP.

Customs officials used to have the power to prosecute book importers without trial by jury. Senator Cutting, of New Mexico, was able to change this system through a new clause in the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill. He was fought bitterly by Reed Smoot and others, but ultimately he triumphed.

The first case under this dispensation has just come up. A Seattle book dealer imported 120 copies of a technical book by a great Dutch scientist, Dr. J. Rutger. It is entitled, "Sex Life in Its Biological Significance."

The books were seized by the customs officials and action taken against the importer. Fortunately, he will now be able to invoke the aid of a jury trial instead of facing customs officials and a complaisant judge.

It is well that this is the first case to come up under the new procedure.

To seize an obviously scientific book, written by a world-famous authority and possible of perusal only by educated adults, exposes censorship in all of its preposterous proportions.—Columbus Citizen.

Light Diet in Jaundice.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are many disturbances which act like indigestion, and yet have no connection with the stomach. One of these is jaundice.

Jaundice is a yellow discoloration of the skin due to the deposit of bile pigment in the tissues. It is really only a symptom of some obstruction to the normal flow of bile.

When the bile can not escape into the intestines in the usual way, it is absorbed by the blood. Then it becomes deposited in the various tissues. This condition, as I have said, is due to some obstruction, such as swelling of the mucous membrane lining the tubes which carry away the bile substance.

The swelling may come on after a chill or from eating some irritating or indigestible food. The obstruction may be due to gall stones, or even to pressure from some abdominal growth.

The yellow discoloration is the first symptom to attract notice. In severe cases this may become pronounced, causing a bronze or deep olive color. With it is disturbance of the digestion. The tongue is coated, the appetite fails and there is a feeling of nausea, aggravated especially by eating fats.

Of course, the first thing to do is to find the cause of the obstruction. X-ray examinations will determine whether gall stones are present.

In treating jaundice first consideration is given the diet. Fats, pastries, highly-seasoned foods and sweets should be avoided. Buttermilk, vichy and lemonade may be given, as well as plenty of water.

The patient should be as quiet as possible. If the attack is at all severe he should be kept in bed. See that the intestinal tract is clear. Your doctor will prescribe the necessary medication when the source of the trouble has been determined.

For the itching which usually accompanies jaundice, hyposulphite of soda, three tablespoonfuls to a quart of water, will be soothing when applied to the skin. It is worth while to remember this because the itching is likely to be intense.—Copyright, 1930, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Indians Came To Trade.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Not many Indians remained in the vicinity of which Columbus is the center after the signing of the treaty of Greenville. They generaly withdrew north of the treaty line and the few that remained adopted for the most part a semi-civilized manner of living. One such who remained was "Billy Wyandot," a former member of the Wyandot tribe, who established his cabin where the Harrisburg road crossed the Scioto river. He was old then, but in his earlier years had been a mighty hunter. One of his feats was the killing of a bear in midstream, alone, and with only his hunting knife. Eventually it was his undoing for, once when under the influence of liquor, he attempted to demonstrate to a party of whites how he did it, plunged into the swollen Scioto when it was full of floating ice and was drowned.

But for many years after the Greenville treaty, parties of Indians from the headwaters of the Scioto meet to trade at Franklinton and Columbus and the early storekeepers of those places profited considerably by the patronage. The Indians brought to sell at these stores skins, dried venison, baskets, maple sugar and cranberries.

At this time they did not take kindly to the barter method of doing business and would demand silver in payment for what they had to sell. With this silver, they would buy powder, shot, cloth, tobacco, knives and cloth, reserving some of it for whisky, and it was generaly expected that before a party departed the members of it would get drunk. It was then only that trouble ensued if there was any.

On one occasion it is said Mrs. Sullivant, the wife of Lucas Sullivant, who was the founder of Franklinton, narrowly escaped injury and perhaps death at the hands of a drunken Indian. Fancying a grievance, he atacked her with a knife and but for the timely arrival of her husband, would have killed her

The Stars.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

So persistent and intensive have been recent astronomical studies concerning the stars that they are known and understood with great scientific precision. Their number, constitution, radiant energy, magnitude and density are facts which can be set down and catalogued. It is even possible now, in the light of the latest researches, to tell, with a close degree of accuracy, what strange things are happening in the interior of these inconceivably hot bodies.

With the naked eye, on a clear night, it is possible to see some 6,000 stars in the firmament. Through a small telescope, one may glimpse several hundred thousand. With the 100-inch reflector at Mount Wilson, one may photograph, it has been estimated, as many as a billion stars. With the 200-inch telescope now building, it will be possible, in all probability, to photograph several billion stars.

The stars, twinkling points of light in the heavens, are hot bodies which derive their temperatures from within. Consider our sun, which serves as a sort of standard or measure for the stars.

The surface temperature of the sun is estimated at about 6,000 degrees centigrade. The temperature of the stars varies from about 2,000 degrees centigrade in the case of the coolest stars, to about 25,000 degrees centigrade, for the hottest stars.

Along with these facts in regard to temperature must be taken into consideration the extreme remoteness of the stars from our own, ever-changing position. Apart from our sun, the nearest of the stars is some twenty-five million million miles away. It is difficult to estimate the remoteness of the most distant stars. But it is probably not less than 500 thousand million million miles.

The relation between brightness and remoteness is a very puzzling question. A star appears to be of a certain brightness, according to fixed standards of measurement. It is bright because it is relatively near us, or is it simply precisely so bright intrinsically?

Take, for example, a comparsion between Sirius and Canopus, the two brightest stars in the heavens. The Dog star is comparatively near whereas Canopus is extremely remote. Yet Canopus is excessively bright, intrinsically—giving out about 10,000 times as much light as our sun.

There is a singular divergence in range between the masses of stars and other qualities of equal importance, such as luminosity, volume and density. No star is more than several hundred times the mass of another; but their luminosities, volumes and densities vary by factors up in the hundreds of millions. Just why this is has not been definitely determined. But the latest researches indicate that these "stellar furnaces," as Adams calls them, are continuously undergoing momentous changes in their interior. And it is believed that the amazing things happening in their interior and the physical conditions present in the stars are responsible for these variations of all sorts.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Aug. 28—Having bestowed patronage upon chili parlors, Harlem dives, Village waffle shops and sandwich parlors, galloping New Yorkers who go places and do things after sundown are giving the canary colored lunch wagons a big play.

After midnight about a dozen along the water front and on the upper reaches of the island are scenes of imported Broadway merriment. Visitors bring their gin and climb upon the swivel stools for hamburger and onions and other rugged dishes of the carte.

Lunch wagon patronage, before the invasion, consisted of neighborhood loafers, night street workers and petty thieves. The color line was rarely drawn. The attendant in greasy, spotty apron inspired a fastidious customer to order a cocoanut and hard boiled egg—and peel them himself.

The single waiter was also cook, cashier and bouncer. But so opulent has one lunch landau become north of 150th street the cook wears a white chef's cap and the waiter is habited in an ill-fitting Tuxedo. A blue-serged youth, hair cut en brosse, pounds a portable piano in a corner.

The appeal of the wagon is in the isolation. They further offer a refreshing joy ride when night club life sags. Noise in such places is not regarded as a disturbance, and a party of twelve may in no time "own the joint" with perhaps the cop on the beat master of ceremonies.

Indeed, when properly exhilirated patrons smack each other playfully with loose eggs and open-faced pies. Nothing matters so long as some one settles, and the total to a Broadway spender is a laugh. Fifteen dollars pays for everything.

While the lunch wagon has almost vanished from the White way, it was once an institution like Reuben's. There was "The Owl" parked at the south end of the Herald building nightly. It catered to a notable trade which upon occasion included the doughty James Bordon Bennett in person.

My lunch wagon patronage came to an abrupt end on a morning paper in East Liverpool, Ohio, years ago. I was washing down a ptomaine atrocity with what they sold for coffee. A sweatered mug, hunched up on an adjoining stool, wiped his mouth on his sleeve, and with a nice taste for horror walked to the end of the counter and shot a man through the head.

It was closest I ever was to actual murder. I did not see the shot fired, but saw a body slump to the floor. Nor did it occur to dash to the telephone to scoop my fellows. When I reached the office the story was in type. I spent the next few days getting my front hair smoothed down again.

One of those crazy-eyed little cyclones that suddenly send a New York street awhirl and is as suddenly gone, came up in east Forty-Third street this morning. A gentleman's straw hat spiraled to a third floor and swept into a window. A pretty girl leaned out, spied the owner, and dropped his hat. And life went fidgeting on again.

Until recently the most terrific wind to lean against was the north corner of the Flatiron building. Today the stiffest breeze is Broadway at Fifty-Seventh. It not only upset a taxi, but blew out a matinee idol's false fang one day.

I was noticed into a storeroom on 10th avenue by a ballyhoo for "Oso, the Educated Ostrich." It was, I fear, mere surface culture, for Oso's sudden kick nearly gave me an unexpected, but likely needed face lift. There's a headline: "Gallipolis Boy Kicked Silly by Ostrich!"

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 28—Here's one they are telling on Senator Borah, of Idaho.

Friends of the senator recently bought a home not far distant from the capital and invited him to come out, visit them, and make himself at home.

On the place were a lot of blackberries. It seems that the famous Idahoan is fond of this particular kind of fruit. So, one day, while his hosts were away, he procured a basket and went out to pluck some.

All went well until an old lady, who lives nearby, spied the senator and accosted him. She asked if he knew he was trespassing. He told her that he was not, but she insisted he was.

Finally, a bit amused at the incident, he turned to her and said:

"Perhaps you do not know who I am."

And without a moment of hesitation came the reply:

"Oh, yes, I do, Senator Borah."

Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, one of the youngest men in the senate, is probably the only member of that body who owes his election to his wife.

Mrs. Robinson's genius for organization won her the post of guiding her husband's political destinty. And it is this same quality that Senator Robinson recognizes he lacks.

Mrs. Robinson began her public activities when he was in the war, a major of infantry in France. Working for war agencies, she manifested ability for organization. When the war was over she began political labors in her precinct committee in Indianapolis.

Later she became vice chairman of the Republican city committee in Indianapolis. She was her husband's sole manager, organizing and conducting his campaign while he stayed at his post in the senate in Washington.

"She has managed me all my life," says the senator. "I saw no reason why she should not do it then."

A rather plain, but vivacious and friendly, woman, Mrs. Robinson is the type who easily makes friends.

Both she and the senator are in their forties.

Recommendations of county central committeemen of election judges and clerks in their respective precincts must be filed with the county board of elections before Monday, according to a letter sent this week to committeemen of both parties by C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the board.

Each committeeman may recommend two election judges and one clerk, and since each precinct has a committeeman in each party the total recommended for the precinct is four judges and two clerks.

The board will act upon the recommendations within the next week, Ritzler advised the committeemen in the letter.

It's the gasoline needed for today's higher-compression motors. Naturally, it steps up the performance of old cars to a point never before thought possible. Try it!

When Standard of Ohio introduced Sohio Extra-Ethyl on July 1st, the thousands of Ohio motorists who used it experienced new and thrilling smoothness of operation—sixes actually seemed like eights! The reason lies in the cool, clean-burning effect of over 50% more Ethyl Fluid. The difference over all other gasolines is most easily measured in terms of knock-freedom.

Ancient, Modern Blues Make Up Ensemble Bill

IN arranging his Maxwell House Ensemble program for Thursday at 8:30 p. m., Willard Robison has selected what might be called Blues ancient and modern.

He has taken one of the earliest Blues of W. C. Handy, "Aunt Hagar's Chillun," which was written when people thought the word meant "down in the mouth." From this he skips to "The Birth of the Blues," only a year or two old.

Robison rounds out his program by the inclusion of one of this season's newest hits, the "March of Time" from the Earl Carrol "Vanities," and the prize composition, the "Simple Simon" fantasy. The ensemble goes out over Station WJZ on the coast to coast network.

Group of Mike Stars To Sing in RCA Program

VARIETY has been the keynote of the summer series of RCA broadcasts, but no program in the entire group has had greater and more varied entertainment value than the one to be broadcast by the Radiola Division of the RCA Victor Company, Thursday at 9 p. m. over the WEAF network.

The program is designed to give radio listeners a complete review of all types of compositions, voices, instruments and grouping of instruments heard on the air. NEW SAFETY RULES RESULT FROM CRASH

Ocroner Acts After Two Die in Accident at National Air Races.

Hasbrouk Heights, N. J., for the air races yesterday afternoon.

Despite the tragedy of yesterday, race executives announced the program for today—sixth day of the races—will be the most elaborate thus far. Three races, a men's free-for-all in open planes of 110 cubic inch piston displacement; a woman's competition for open planes of 500 cubic inch piston displacement a men's competition for open type ships of 800 cubic inch piston displacement were scheduled.

Results of the seventh and last of the transcontinental derbies of the 1930 races was announced yesterday when Art Goebel, noted for his flight to Hawaii, crossed the finish line after roaring eastward from Los Angeles in 9 hours, 21 minutes, 21.4 seconds. His speed was sufficient to give him second place and a prize of $4,500. Wiley Post of Oklahoma City who flew the race Tuesday with three other competitors, was awarded the first prize of $7,500, his time being 9 hours, 9 minutes and 4 seconds.

LINDBERGHS IN COLUMBUS

Flying Colonel Undecided as to Entering Chicago Race Events.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, enroute to the air races at Chicago, hopped off from Port Columbus at 11:03 a. m. eastern standard time today. They planned to make a stop at Idianapolis.

The flying colonel and his wife arrived here last night from New Jersey. While here the Colonel conferred with officials of the T. A. T. Maddux Transcontinental air lines, of which he is technical adviser. He inspected the company hanger and ships this morning before taking to the air.

Asked if he intended to take part in any of the races at Chicago, Colonel Lindbergh said he had been in touch with race officials, but had not decided to participate in any of the events.

deposited in banks outside of Russia twenty million pounds, about $100,000,000.

The statement probably is not accurate. Few men at the top ever realize that they may fall. Totzky didn't realize it, or Danton, or Robespierre, who killed Danton, or Marat, stabbed in his bathtub by a girl.

But the mention of 20,000,000 pounds is interesting, and Stalin could easily send that much out of Russia.

Where there is so much money there will gradually come conservatism.

A TRUE STORY FROM Atlantic City, N. J., reminds you of Ulysses landing on the beach where a pretty Princess and her young companions were playing ball in costumes that would surprise even our modern young ladies.

In the place of one Ulysses, three powerful sailors from Nova Scotia staggered through the surf to the shore after swimming eight hours to get help for those left in distress on their schooner, the Francis D. They said nothing about seeing any Nausicaa, but were grateful for hot drinks at the police station.

CRIME CONTINUES to develop new features.

In New York four are shot in connection with a "gambling slot machine racket."

Early yesterday Joseph Silverman, aged 25, was shot. Later Martin Fishbaum, sitting in a restaurant, was ordered by four men avengers of Silverman, to come out and take a ride. Knowing what that meant, he replied, "Nothing doing, I stay here.' He went far away. They killed him.

Fishbaum took his medicine submissively, did not fight back when the murderers said, "All right, then, let him have it here."

But Harry Harris, shot a little later in Villa Joe's restaurant, fought back when invited for a ride. He was alive when he reached the hospital, in spite of a bullet in the forehead and another near the ear, laughed when asked who shot him, and replied, "Don't you guys bother about that; these things are always taken care of."

He will die, and probably before long the man that shot him will die. These things are "taken care of."

That is a good deal of money, although one American with a great deal more than $100,000,000 said that when he thought about Rockefeller or Carnegie he felt "like a gypsy."

MARION MAN ONCE MINSTREL VETERAN

Charles Gano, Former Headliner, Recalls Association with Stage Stars.

who retired from the show game several years ago now resides at 269 Superior street.

Started in 1888

Mr. Gano began his minstrel career in 1888 with Barlow, Wilson. Primrose and West, and trouped in the United States, England and a great many of the foreign countries with minstrel shows, musical shows and vaudeville. His work in minstrel shows was that of an endman and leading the parade. He will tell you that the greatest thrill of the day came in the parade, when the company stopped for the concert in the heart of the town and when the curtain went up on the show.

He made his bow in New York in the old Grand opera house on Twenty-third street, in the days of gas lights and horsedrawn street cars. Rehearsals were on 126th street, quite some distance from his boarding house and more than one line of a show was committed to memory between blocks. Prior to going to New York he was in a sketch with Iler & Burke, of this city, and in his variety days was teamed up with Jimmy McCoy, playing music halls and entertaining with songs, dances, sketches and musical tumblers and glasses.

Had Its Trials

Life on the road had its trials but it also had its pleasant side. If the lodging accommodations were below par at least the food was good for the most part, the showman did not have to pay full fare for his hotel nor railroad fare. Sometimes the town afforded a theater with well-equipped dressing rooms and again the showman put on his makeup in a room or rooms adjoining the theater. Sometimes the trouper rode to the theater in state and again found his way through the mud and darkness to the town opera house.

One-night stands were something to be taken as a part of the game, while a stay of three or four weeks, particularly if the show was going over big, was the next thing to owning Broadway. One of the highlights of Mr. Gano's career was his engagement at Hall's Casino during the World's fair at Chicago in 1893 when his song "After the Fair Is Over" sung to the tune of "After the Ball" was a popular favorite with fair visitors.

Many Friends in Movies

Mr. Gano is an enthusiastic picture fan and seldom is there a change in pictures in the city that he isn't to be found in the audience. However, he is able to appreciate the show a great deal more than the average theater patron, for in many of the productions, particularly the larger ones, he is sure to find one or more of his friends of show days. He also misses something that the average theater fan doesn't,—when the curtain goes down the theater is emptied and there isn't a sound of applause. To the veteran showman this lack of applause was keenly noticeable upon the presentation of John McCormack here recently, when at the close of his numbers the audience failed to give him the reward his work merited.

Mack of Moran and Mack is something of a protege of Mr. Gano who was a find in Chicago some years ago. Marie Dressler is a fellow trouper, and he is greatly interested in Maurice Chevalier, whose father the Great Chevalier, was on the same bill with him for some time in the Canterbury theater in England.

"It was a great life and I wouldn't trade an hour of it for anything else in the world," is the veteran trouper's summing up of the good old days when the legitimate theater was in its hey-day, and his visitors know from the way it is said, he means it.

McCormack, Eddie Foy, and many other celebrities of the stage are recalled in pleasing incidents of the veteran of minstrelsy, as are his days with Fields, White and Coburn, McIntire & Heath, O'Brien's Minstrels and on down the list.

THE

BY HELEN ROWLAND

No Cure for Husbands.

How to "cure" a stepping husband. That is what a young wife wants me to tell her—and what about a million wives, young and old, would give their last penny to find out.

If I knew an infallible recipe for retrieving wandering husbands, dear heart, I could sell it for enough money to keep me in diamond wrist-watches and Rolls-Royces for the rest of my life.

There are just three kinds of stepping husbands.

First, those who were BORN that way. Those who were born instinctive rovers, just as some children are born with double-jointe or red hair or big ears. They would never stay at home, if their homes were Paradise and their wives archangels. They step, not for love of another woman, but just for love of a change, or love of adventure, or love of amusement, or love of conquest. Their hearts may belong to their wives, but they were born with a going-foot and a wandering fancy. Thank heaven, their kind is almost as rare as club feet or Siamese twins.

Second, there are those who leave home just because they want to GET AWAY. Because their homes have become unbearable or because they have lost their taste for their wives. Because they are bored or annoyed or nagged, and ANY place looks better to them than the old fireside. If all the speakeasies and pool-rooms were closed they would go to a graveyard for relief.

Tried To Sell Bracelet

William Shenck of Marysville testified yesterday that Hatcher had attempted to sell him a diamond bracelet but that he rejected the offer. Later Hatcher went to Marysville again to sell Shenck the bracelet and again Shenck told him he was not interested, according to Shenck's testimony.

Hatcher then sold the bracelet to the Switzers for $20, the transaction following the automobile trade.

The defendant declared he made the sale because one of the Switzers told him that if the jewels were stolen he might as well get rid of all of them.

"Why did you sell him the bracelet then if you thought it was stolen?" Moloney asked Hatcher.

"Because he talked me into it," the defendant replied.

The prosecution put Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock in the witness chair before the case was adjourned at noon for lunch. Shrock gave Hatcher's police record which consists of five arrests in the last four years on various charges. He did not tell what disposition was made of the cases although Defense Attorney Myers questioned him on this point.

For the fourth straight day the courtroom was filled to capacity with spectators. On Monday and Tuesday the crowd assembled to hear the trial of Miss ... and yesterday and today they came to hear the case against Hatcher.

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURES OF A DARING TEXAS GIRL

CHAPTER 32

Dagger Meets a War Lord

DAGGER'S leisurely voyage across the Bay of Bengal, through the Straits to Singapore, and north through the China sea to Shanghai, was at once restful and stimulating.

She found interesting companions, both easterners and westerners, and gleaned such information as she could about Chang Kai Sho. A most remarkable man, everyone was agreed. To her, apparently, the most interesting character identified with her journey.

The son of a poor millet-farmer, he had become a successful bandit during the hazardous days of the Russo-Japanese war, and in the period of confusion attending the collapse of the empire and the civil wars which followed had acquired the power of a sovereign prince in the great northern province of Sung-liu, rich, populous and so situated as to be the strategical key to all of North China. Bolshevists, Japanese and warring Chinese republicans alike courted and bribed him, and his armies, officered and trained by foreign mercenaries, were regarded as the trump card in any hostilities which occurred.

What she heard of him aroused Dagger's curiosity still further, and she left Shanghai by the first available train for Pekin.

With a special letter of introduction from the American minister to the consul at Sung-fu, Chang's capital, she took the Northern express across the Great Wall and up through the millet fields into the rolling hills of the north country, where coolies grew to be as tall as westerners, and the people of the villages bore themselves with an aggressive self-respect.

A different country, this. There was order and discipline at the waystations; the train kept to its schedule; service was prompt and efficient; and foreigners were neither scowled at nor ignored. Long miles before she reached her destination, Dagger appreciated that a man as positive in his personality as Ghulam Buk was the animating force of this system of administration.

Sung-fu was a vast, sprawling city of half a million souls, quaint combination of Chinese and western ideals, civilization and industrialism. In the Old Walled City, streets were jumbled in a confusion past western comprehension. Shops were very similar to those of the North African cities Dagger had visited; sanitation was ignored; people lived in the intimacy of a bee-hive; business, trade, manufacture were conducted on the most primitive basis.

But adjoining the Walled City, surrounding it, were more modern quarters, mainly Chinese in architecture, to be sure, yet struggling to adopt some measure of the spaciousness of the west, while here and there foundries reared and factories spun and wove and punched metal.

In the midst of all was reared Chang's palace, a building of colossal dimensions, conceived in an atrocious mimicry of nineteenth century public buildings in Europe. Its one claim to beauty was the park which ringed its ugly square bulk. The garden wall was dotted with sentries and machine-guns, and in barracks adjacent a battalion of infantry slept constantly upon their arms.

Americans, from the consul down, were inclined to laugh at Dagger's ambition to meet the Tu-chun——

"My dear lady, he's a most attractive bandit, and he has the largest harem of western women owned by any one individual in China; but you'd be disappointed in him, I assure you. He takes himself very seriously. And I wouldn't encourage a woman of your position to meet him—not that he could do anything to you, you know, but he says the most terrible things, if he happens to feel like it. And he asks questions, too—oh, you'd be very unhappy."

Dagger quietly recited her recent adventures

"Do you think he'd be more dangerous or annoying than a caravan of Saharan Arabs?" she demanded.

"We-e-ell—perhaps not. But you won't get anything out of him. He rather looks down on women, to be honest with you."

"I wonder if you'd be willing to forward him a note from me?" she asked. "I used to know a man who was friendly with him."

"Oh, glad to, of course." This was the consul. "But officially, I must frown and——"

"Frown all you please," Dagger interrupted cheerily, "so long as you do what I want."

The consul laughed.

"I know how you get what you want," he said. "Scribble your note, Mrs. Vancering, and I'll enclose it with a consular chit. You'll probably receive an invitation to meet the harem, at least—and they tell me that's one of the sights of China."

Dagger's note was of the briefest:

"To the Tu-chun Chang Kai Sho:

"I have heard of you from Blaine Howard. Will you talk to me of him? He was lost in the Great War, and I seek those of his friends he loved best to refresh my memory of him.

"Alexandra Vancering."

His response was as sudden as it was unexpected. That afternoon the street in front of Dagger's hotel was invaded by troops. Cavalry on chunky horses galloped into formation; a long column of infantry unwound itself. And next, to the wailing invocation of Chinese music, a little group of mounted men rode up to the portico. To Dagger, watching amusedly from her window, came the hotel's Japanese proprietor, abashed and uncertain.

"If you please, Madame," he exclaimed, sucking in his breath politely and trying to conceal his worry, "the Tu-chun is below, and asks to see you. Most unusual, this doing, Madame. Maybe I better send for American, Japanese, consul. What you think?"

"Ask the Tu-chun to come upstairs, Mr. Araki," Dagger answered, more amused than ever. "No, I don't think we need the consuls. I invited the Tu-chun to call."

Mr. Araki looked doubtful.

"Chang plenty big man," he asserted doubtfully. "Never can know what he do. Make trouble with Russian for woman."

"He won't make trouble for me," Dagger reassured him. "Please ask him to come up to my salon."

"If you please." Mr. Araki ducked his head and sucked in his breath simultaneously, perfect embodiment of eastern and western courtesy. "But if he make trouble you call loud, and I come quick. No Chinese man do this in my hotel. Madame—no, not the Tu-chun himself."

"I'm sure he won't," Dagger assented. "But if he does——"

Mr. Araki glowed under her smile, and retired. And a few moments later there was a knock on Dagger's door.

"Come in," she said.

A voice spoke gutturally, and the door swung open, framing the tallest, gauntest man she had ever seen, taller by reason of the long, silken robe he wore, and the peacock's feather in his mandarin's hat—itself a commentary upon the republican regime in China. His face, too, was long and gaunt, its slant eyes bright as an eagle's and as cruel, his nose, which flared at the nostrils, hooked in a predatory beak.

One hand was hooked in the sash of his robe, revealing talon-like fingers, their tips encased in the silver sheaths which had been fashionable for men of rank under the empire. He was long, too, in his legs, horseman's legs that straddled beneath the skirts of the robe. Behind him Dagger glimpsed the hall full of officers in khaki, Mr. Araki hovering uneasily in their midst. There was a glitter of swort-hilts and the electric bulbs shone dully on the butts of holstered automatics; but so far as she could see, the tall man in the doorway was unarmed.

He stared at her with a frank interest which reminded her of the reference in books she had read to "impassive yellow masks." And the arrogance in his jet eyes was minimized by the courtesy with which he addressed her.

"I am Chang," he said. "It was kind of you to tell me you had come."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

MY hands felt stiff this morning when me and Jubilee work up, and when I had got out of bed to let him down by the rope in his teeth, and I let the rope begin to slide through my hands it hurt so it almost got away from me, I had to crowd my stummick up against it and the window sill, and I got a rope burn on my stummick before I stopped it, but a fella can't let his dog go flooey. I wished I had put on my britches before I began to let him down.

When I had got in my short britches and got the pail and went out to the barn to milk the dummed brutes the bunch was all there, and we were hoping the girls wouldn't come poking along, because when it is hot like it is now there is more fun swimming than doing anything else, and a fella can't go in when a lot of girls are along.

I was setting down on the stool milking the old cow and a fly or something got on her, and she swung her tail around and got it around my neck, so I looked her in the eye when she turned her head to look at me, and then I tore off a few of the words my grandfather said, and I was getting them pretty good when all at once my mother's voice said, "Why, Thomas Aristides!" And when I looked around the hind end of the other cow there she was standing in the barn door. All I could say was: "Yessum." And then she told the bunch to run along and play somewheres else, and then she asted me what I meant by using such words, and I told her they were some words I heard my grandfather say to the cow. And I said I didn't know what they meant but they made the cow stop slapping him with her tail so I thought I would try them, and she asted me if I was sure I didn't know what they meant, and when I said I didn't she said they weren't words for little boys and to never use them again. I said I wouldn't. I didn't lie. I don't know what they mean, but I bet they mean a plenty.

The bunch were waiting for me at the vacant lot, and when I showed up they all copy-catted my mother and hollered, "Why, Thomas Aristides." I just grinned. That bunch can't get my goat. We looked in a yard on the way back and a kid was setting in a tree, and when we asted him what he was doing he said he had been there 200 hours and was going to break a record. Whitey asted him how he got his baths and he said he didn't get any till he came down. Whitey has to wash all over every night, so when he heard that he said he was going to be a tree sitter if his mother would let him. I don't blame him. I wish my ant would be one Sunday morning.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Passes a Hand in the Muddle

WHAT had happened to displease Philip Veritzen in the short time which had elapsed since I had seen him? This was the question which caromed around my brain as I listened to his astonishing comment that he thought I had decided to dispense with his services altogether.

It was not because of my tardiness in telephoning him, I was sure of that, though he is easily irritated on the score of non-punctuality. But he has been most indulgent to me upon the rare occasions that I have transgressed in that direction. No, this was something more serious, and, with a feeling of strong distaste, I braced myself to find out what it was.

Edith Talks Again

If only my own comfort had been concerned, if even my position in his organization had been hazarded, I am sure I should have given him a reply as curt as his own and hung up the receiver. But at his own request I had depended upon his munificent offers for Mary's party, and it was too late now to make arrangements of my own that would insure the successful entertainment I wished for her. Besides, I had even a greater thing at stake—the reconciliation between Noel and his father, which Lillian had insisted had but one chance—the influence with Philip Veritzen which she claimed was mine.

"I am sorry to be so late," I said deferentially, with the assumption that my tardiness was his only grievance. "But really I could not find out definitely before about the time." I devoutly hoped that the recording angel had business away from my record at this moment. "And even now I cannot tell you until later about the colors of the gowns. But I can tell you that the party is scheduled for tonight. You wanted to know that first, on account of the theater tickets, didn't you?"

He was silent for a long second, while I wondered if he would be so crass as to withdraw his offer of theater box seats for Mary's guests.

"It doesn't matter about the tickets," he said at last brusquely. "I'll attend to them. All you will have to do will be to bring the members of your party to the theater after dinner. The tickets will be all ready for you. Neither does what you call your tardiness matter. But I am curious to know why you should have led me to expect you would wear a bouquet of my selection tonight when you were planning to discard it."

"I do not understand you," I faltered, although I did, only too well. Edith Fairfax! I could see her "fine Italian hand" in this wretched business only too plainly.

"I learned of it only by chance," his deep voice went on. "Miss Fairfax telephoned me a little while ago saying that she was going to wear green at the party and that she was telephoning me because she thought she could save me the cost and bother of a separate bouquet. She said that you had decided upon sand color and that your 'boy friend,' whoever the gentleman may be, was sending you a bouquet to match. She said she would be 'thrilled to tears' to wear the one I had selected for you because she knew it would be the 'last word'—I believe that was the expression she used. She is rather a naive, schoolgirlish person apparently and does not repress her enthusiasms. But naturally I do not choose that she, nor anyone, shall wear the flowers I selected for you. I have selected another bouquet for her, and if what she says is true, and you are wearing another man's flowers, I shall throw away the one I planned for you. May I venture to ask the name of the fortunate man?"

I would not have believed he could be so crass. Philip Veritzen, the greatest dramatic producer of his time, was acting like a loutish country schoolboy—and talking like one, only for a wider vocabulary.

But for the moment I was beyond speech of any kind. Fierce anger was shaking me against Philip Veritzen, against Edith Fairfax, above all against my husband. For he must have told Edith that he was sending me a bouquet for my sand-colored gown, must have planned with her the atrocious batting of Mr. Veritzen of which she had been guilty.

"You are unwilling to tell me?" Mr. Veritzen's voice was still icy, but there was a note of appeal in it, or so I fancied.

"You either have been grossly misinformed or have jumped to conclusions," I said when I had battled myself to composure. "I have not yet rejected your bouquet for my green gown, and the only other man who has even thought of sending me one is my husband."

GLAD TO TELL WHAT KONJOLA DID FOR ME

Found in New and Different Medicine, First and Only Relief From Misery

MR. FRANK McCONNELL

Times without number men and women have exclaimed: "Konjola is the only medicine that helped me; the medicine I should have had in the first place." Take, for example, the case of Mr. Frank McConnell, 134 Holt street, Dayton, Ohio, who says:

"Oh, how I suffered with stomach trouble before I found Konjola. Everything I ate, seemed to lie like a rock in my stomach. My liver was sluggish, and I had dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. Rest at night was impossible, and all that I tried for relief did no good. But what a surprise Konjola gave me! Even the first bottle helped digestion. I took in all nine bottles, and today it is a pleasure to eat; dizzy spells are gone; my nerves are calm and I sleep fine. Never shall I cease to praise the medicine that did this for me."

Konjola is a medicine for old and young; for all the family. That is why Konjola is a household word wherever this amazing medicine is known and given a chance to prove its worth.

Konjola is sold in Marion, Ohio, at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

"Now I Feel 100 Better"

"People told my mother how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for young girls, so I took it. I used to feel miserable at certain times but now I feel 100% better and have gained a little in weight too. I am only nineteen years old. I do not work but of course I help mother with the housework. We are both much pleased with the results from the Vegetable Compound and we recommend it to other girls who need it."—Evelyn M. Murray, 19 Colonial Street, Waterville, Maine.

AL'S ATTORNEY FACING QUIZ

Tells of Move To Gain Confidence of Trio in Murder Plot.

By The Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 28—Counsel for three defendants today planned a vigorous cross-examination of Vincent C. Giblin, who as attorney for Alphonse Capone, Chicago gang lord, said he played the role of an investigator into an alleged conspiracy to assassinate Gov. Doyle E. Carlton.

Giblin in direct testimony at a preliminary hearing, related a story of counter moves to gain the confidence of the reputed conspirators, Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee editor, Frank Ralls and Henry Halsema.

Clem Dowling, former roommate of Ralls, testified he first exposed the alleged plot to the governor and then to J. Fritz Gordon and Giblin, both attorneys for Capone. Giblin said the gang chief in a telephone call from Chicago asked him to look into the matter as he understood the plan was to lay the blame on Capone's men.

Giblin said because of his known opposition to Carlton he was able to pose as an enemy of the governor.

Giblin said he told Ralls he had a plan to get control of gambling in Miami if the governor would remove the present sheriff. He said he would be willing to pay $100,000. Giblin said Ralls told him he knew of three men who were "here" with the governor and ready "to bump him off." At a further meeting, Giblin said Ralls told him it had been planned by "those three men to pay a gunman $7,500."

EXTORTION CHARGED

Negro Arrested in Probe of "Warning" Letter Asking $2,000.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—Lydell S. Taylor, a Negro, was arrested last night for an alleged attempt to extort $2,000 from Mrs. Mary Joyce, widow of State Senator John T. Joyce, whose recent death under mysterious circumstances is still being investigated by county officials.

Mrs. Joyce gave police a letter on which appeared the name "Lydell S. Taylor" and an address at which Taylor was arrested.

The letter said: "I warned your husband and he would not take heed." Police believed, however, that the Negro had never known Joyce but read of his death in the newspapers.

Mrs. Joyce said she believed her husband, who was to testify before a grand jury concerning vote frauds, had been poisoned and the coroner ordered an investigation which was continued pending analysis

Boyhood Friendship Still Stands in Time of Need

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

CANTON, O., Aug. 28—A boyhood friendship which was ended 30 years ago in Lisbon, county seat of Columbiana county, has resulted in the appearance of a benefactor for Charles Babington, who soon will face a murder charge here as a result of having shot his wife recently during a reconciliation meeting in one of the city parks.

The benefactor seted on the veranda of his home overlooking the Hudson river several weeks ago read in an eastern newspaper a press dispatch telling of the crime for which Babington was arrested and held for trial.

There was something strangely familiar in the name of Cherles Babington and the man pondered a few moments, searching his memory. He finally connected the name with a barefoot boy back in Lisbon, with whom he used to play.

Coming to this section a week ago last Monday on a business trip, the man made a special trip to Canton and visited Babington in the county jail. It was the same Charley with whom he had played as a boy.

After spending some time talking over their childhood days, they discussed Babington's present trouble and the friendship formed 30 years ago still was good. A few days later Attorney W. Bernard Rodgers, prominent Canton lawyer, received a phone call notifying him that he had been retained as counsel for Babington.

LEE STREET WALLOPS ERIE TEAM, 7-4

CHURCH CHAMPS GET EVEN DOZEN BINGLES OFF LOSING HILLMEN

Benny Crabtree Leads Attack with Homer, Triple and Single; Youngsters Refuse To Crack and Are Heavy Favorites To Cop City Championship.

BY BOB ELLIOTT

Fulfilling all expectations that they would hit Erie Roundhouse pitching and hit it to the 'nth degree Lee Street came through with its second triumph of the Little World Series by smothering the Erie Roundhouse hopefuls under a barrage of an even dozen hits to win, 7 to 4. The victory gives the No. 2 champion a strangle-hold on the city championship race and they are now prohibitive favorites to succeed Epworth No. 1 as the recreation ball rulers of the city.

This team of sensationally playing youngsters failed to crack as they were expected to after their 5 to 4 win over Calvary, and fairly coasted to the win over Erie behind some excellent hurling by Carl Fadley, who apparently seems to have nothing but has everything. He pitched no-hit ball for five innings and gave up only five bingles altogether.

Gets Good Support

He received good support despite the four errors charged up against his team, which were more bobbles of omission than commission. Shoemaker, the starting Erie hurler, received sensational support during his stay on the mound or the score would even have been worse. Fido Robbins made two beautiful catches in centerfield while Sammy Sharrock cut off two Lee Street hits at shortstop.

There was plenty of long-distance clouting in the game, one double, four triples and a home run being marked up. Benny Crabtree was the individual hitting star getting a triple, homer and single in three trips to the plate, scoring three runs and driving in two more, this accounting for all but two of the winners' runs.

His triple in the second scored Conkle while his homer in the fifth brought in the Lee Street catcher again. The other two Lee Street scores came when H. Richards scored on Conkle's single in the fifth and when Fadley plated on J. Richards' sacrifice fly in the fourth.

One Big Inning

The Roundhouse scored three of its four runs in the fourth when Glen Price tripled with the sacks filled to capacity. All this might

BROOKLYN HOPS INTO PENNANT RACE AGAIN BY BEATING GIANTS

Jumbo Elliott Takes Away Major Share of Glory with Relief Hurling.

Brooklyn, which led the National league longer than any other this season, is far from being out of the pennant race.

The Robins opened the series with the New York Giants by slamming out a 7 to 2 victory yesterday and reducing the distance between second place and third to a half game. Big Jim Elliott, who came into the game after Bill Clark's dispute with Umpire Jorda had sent him out, took away the major share of what glory there was. He outpitched three opponents to hold the New Yorkers to nine hits while the Robins, piled up 15 effective wallops.

The Robins not only gained a game on the Giants and held their own against the oncoming St. Louis Cardinals, but they picked up a lap on the league leading Chicago Cubs. The Cubs found some rough going against the Pittsburgh Pirates and lost the final clash of their series, 10 to 8, in a wild hitting struggle.

St. Louis remained a half game behind Brooklyn by winning its eighth straight game. Sparky Adams, who filled Frank Frisch's place at second base, pulled the Cards through to a 2 to 1 victory over Cincinnati.

The Phillies, and the Boston Braves, met in the other National league clash and it was the longer losing streak which ended. With Sugar Sweetland pitching effectively and Fred Brickell hitting with just as much effect, Philadelphia won by a 9 to 3 score.

In the American league the Chicago White Sox gained the big triumph of the day, taking a clear hold on sixth place by winning two games from the Cleveland Indians, holders of fourth. The Sox pounded the offerings of four Cleveland pitchers for 21 hits and a 14 to 5 victory in the first game then outlasted the Indians to take a 5 to 4 decision in the second as Ted Lyons won his twentieth game of the season.

The double victory put Chicago a full game ahead of the St. Louis Browns, who rode through to a 5 to 0 victory over the Detroit Tigers on Walter Stuart's brilliant pitching.

Local Baseball Team To Play in Tournament

PLAYING under the name of the Niemeyer All-Stars a team of local recreation ball celebrities will try to win the Ohio recreation ball championship for Marion Sunday at Lorain. This tournament which is the first of its kind has attracted teams from all over the state.

The local team will be made up of Conkle and Wilson, catchers; Gunder, Gruber, Rice and Kellogg, pitchers; Cram, W. Baldauf, first basemen; Braham, second base; Marshall, third base, and Kerr and A. Baldauf, shortstops. The outfield is not yet completed although two of the gardeners will be Myron Gibson and Jerry Niemeyer.

This team should have a good chance to cop off some of the prize money which goes to the four highest finishing teams. The tournament will be played on the eight grass diamonds boasted by Lorain, starting at noon. The tourney is slated to close around 6 p. m. It is sponsored by the Matt Ebinger Coal Co. of Lorain.

The same rules will prevail that the Marion leagues are governed by except that a 14-inch ball will be used in place of the smaller ball in vogue here. The local team will leave the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 a. m. sharp.

GATES GROWING AT EVERY GAME

The receipts at the Lee Street-Roundhouse game totaled $125.00, the largest gate yet. In every way the gates are getting bigger and although the Calvary-Kappa game may see a slight decrease from this mark it is not expected to fall below the $100 mark.

Umpires for the Friday clash will see Smallwood behind the plate, Paul Rice on first, Curtis on second, and Crissinger on third.

FAILS TO REACH GOAL

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 28—Miss Elsie West, English swimmer, today abandoned her attempt to swim the English channel after being in the water since 10:39 p. m. yesterday.

SPORT RAMBLINGS

BY BOB ELLIOTT

IF we remember rightly a slight mention was made after the Roundhouse-Kappa game that the Erie team was more or less of a disappointment. There were quite a few of the Erie faithful who disagreed most violently with us on this point which is all well and good. However, we wonder just how they feel now after the Erie's crushing defeat last night by Lee Street. That word crushing is a strong adjective but what I mean that defeat left little to the imagination. They simply won through superior play. The church team's hitting, which was savage enough against Calvary in the pinches, reached a higher point against Shoemaker, the Erie ace.

The No. 2 champions are now almost prohibitive favorites to cop the series and the city championship. All they have to do now is to sit back until next Thursday and watch the other three teams cut each other's throats and wear out each other's pitchers. The Kappas and Calvary meet Friday and the result will see one team eliminated. Then next Tuesday the winner of that game plays the Erie Roundhouse and pronto another team will be eliminated. Then the survivor meets Lee Street Thursday and to win the city championship must defeat them Thursday and again in a seventh game the following game. A prety tough schedule.

THE starting pitchers in the Friday game are a bit uncertain right now although Roscoe Rank seems due to be on the hill when the fraternity team takes the field. Roy Rice may be there and he may not but inside dope has it with Rank hurling and possibly Rice in right field. Gruber or Lyle Messenge will hurl for Calvary but which one is absolutely unknown. Gruber seems the more logical choice, for the Kappas are not easy picking for a slow ball pitcher like Messenger. On the other hand a fast ball hurler such as Gruber may get by. Calvary will be strengthened by the return of C. Messenger and Razz Young.

The oldest pitcher in the Western league this season is Naylor, of the Pueblo club, who is 38.

AMERICAN STRENGTH IN FIELD DECIDES IT

Tolan and Simpson Held Out of Hundred, Which I Won by High School Star in 09:8.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—Uncle Sam still reigns supreme in track and field athletics—with emphasis on the "field."

Before a crowd of 43,000 spectators, the largest ever to watch a track meet on the American continent, the United States for the third time, defeated the pick of Great Britain's track and field stars, in Soldier Field stadium last night. The event, conducted under artificial lighting, provided the throng with one thrill after another, as Uncle Sam triumphed, nine events to five.

Eight Records Fall

Eight meet records were wrecked, five of them by the Americans. Starting with the 400-yard relay, the Americans went on to win the pole vault, shot put, high jump, 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay, hammer throw, broad jump, javelin throw and mile medley relay. The Britains triumphed in the one-mile relay, the four-mile relay, two-mile relay, two-mile steeplechase and three-mile team race.

Records started falling in the first event. Russell Sweet, former Montana sprint star, Cy Leland of Texas Christian university, George Simpson, Ohio State comet, and Eddie Tolan of the University of Michigan, did :37.5 in the 400-yard relay to defeat Leigh Miller of Canada, W. B. Legg of South Africa, E. L. Page of England and Johnny Fitzpatrick of Canada and better the former mark of :37.8.

Great Britain came back with a superb performance in the mile relay, racing it in 3:16.8.

Steve Anderson of the Washington A. C., Seattle, formerly of the University of Washington, put the big punch in the record-breaking of the U. S. in the shuttle relay. The time was :59.5, against the former record of 1:01.6.

Held Out of Race

Both Eddie Tolan, world record holder in the 100-yard dash, and George Simpson of Ohio State, were held out of the special 100-yard dash to save them for the one-mile medley relay. The event became an all-American affair. Ralph Metcalf, negro ace from Tilden Technical High of Chicago, and national junior A. A. U. champion in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, finished first in :09.8, with Hector Dyer, Stanford university, second, and Charlie Farmer of North Carolina, third.

Herman Brix of the Los Angeles A. C., led the U. S. victory in the shot put with an effort of 50 feet 5 inches, while Walter Party of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, led the high jumpers with 6 feet, 5 inches. Tom Warne of Northwestern university, was easily the class of the pole-vaulting field with a leap of 13 feet, 5¼ inches, and A. H. Bates of Penn State, topped the broad jumpers at 23 feet, 3 inches.

UNION ADOPTS FINAL PLANS

Arrangements Made To Entertain Visiting Delegations at Labor Day Event.

Marion Central Labor Union last night adopted final plans for the big Labor day celebration planned for Marion next Monday in its regular meeting in Labor hall.

Arrangements were completed for the entertainment of the several delegations of visiting labor unions that will be present for the local celebration. The Columbus Federation of Labor has announced that it will cooperate to the fullest extent possible with the local body in the successful staging of the event. Gilbert Belt, president of the Columbus unions will be the guest labor speaker in the Monday program here.

Resolutions were passed in the meeting assuring the citizens that there would be no admission charges for any of the events planned for Crystal Lake park during the celebration. The all-star wrestling and boxing card scheduled to start at 8 p. m. will be the only event of the program at which admission will be charged.

The organization heard a report on the Ohio State Federation of Labor convention by Jess Warrick. Warrick represented the Marion Central Labor Union and the Carpenters' local union No. 976 at the convention.

Hayes Maynard, president of the Marion labor organization, is in Port Jervis, N. Y., attending the convention of the Erie System Federations and the president's chair was taken in his absence by Vice President Charles Stoll.

The Labor day committee of 50 members will meet today at 6:30 p. m. in the Hotel Marion for a dinner meeting and further discussion of plans relative to the Monday celebration.

CAPTAIN GOES DOWN WITH SHIP IN CRASH

Warns Engineer To Save Self as Boat Sinks After Collision in Harbor.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Caught by shifting freight, a captain was carried down with his ship in New York harbor last night after a collision with a scow. His crew of 24 was rescued.

The collision between the Clyde-Mallory freighter Neches and the third of a string of scows in tow of a tub occurred in the narrows off Staten Island. Coast guard boats and police launches saved all the officers and men but Captain Eber Estee of the Neches. He was wedged in by a load of pipe on the after deck.

Chief Engineer E. Carey, of Hillside, N. J., fought desperately to free him but was pitched into the water as the ship turned over on its side.

"You can't help me. Take care of yourself Carey," were the captain's last words, Carey said after he had been taken from the water.

Mountain scenery to be appreciated has to be lingered over.

not have happened had Johnny Marshall not waited a little too long to see if Lusch was going to try to go from second to third on Sharrock's hopper to third base. Then also during this splurge Robbins bunted a rather high fly that was allowed to fall safe. The other Erie score came on a walk to Robbins, Lang's single and H. Richards' wild heave over Marshall's head trying to catch Fido at third.

One of the freakiest plays in many a moon occurred in the Roundhouse half of the fifth. Hinklin had grounded out and then Lowry had gone out on a close decision at first. Lusch hit an easy grounder to Marshall who to everybody's surprise threw to second base, evidently thinking Lowry had been called safe. Mike Braham took the throw and as unconcernedly as if he was completing a double play tossed to Primm in plenty of time to catch Sharrock only to have Primm drop the throw.

Features in Fielding

The feature fielding plays were turned in by Glen Price, Sammy Sharrock and Braham. Price made a nice running catch of Conkle's drive into left center in the fourth while Sharrock robbed Braham of a hit in the third when he jumped high into the air to bring down a screeching liner that was ticketed for two sacks. Braham made his best play when he went clear over to second base to get Hinklin's bounder through the box and throw him out.

Lusch and Lang pulled the old Alphonse and Gaston act for the crowd in the seventh on Marshall's easy pop fly.

Action for Half Million Dollars Alimony Begins

BUCYRUS, Aug. 28—Argument in the Gledhill divorce case was started in Judge Wright's court here this morning when attorneys for Alma C. Gledhill of Galion and counsel for Arthur C. Gledhill, Macon, Ga., lumberman entered into the final battle to establish a basis on which to figure alimony claims of Alma Gledhill, the plaintiff.

Gledhill, former Galionite and owner of lumber plants in Galion, Bucyrus, Shelby and Crestline, is reputed to be a millionaire. His wife is suing for divorce and has set the amount of alimony she expects at a half million dollars, plus a $20,000 house in Galion, to be built for her.

Mrs. Gledhill's attorneys have disclosed that he owns 3,000 acres of land in Georgia, 25 residences there and rights in an oil company in Louisiana, in addition to a farm in Crawford county.

They parted in 1916, but Mrs. Gledhill repudiated a separation agreement she signed then under which she was to receive three properties in Galion, valued at $15,000.

Gledhill's testimony indicates that his total assets at the ime the separation agreement was signed, were only a fraction of his present holdings, and claims that she contributed nothing to his later successes.

Gledhill obtained a "Georgia divorce" from the plaintiff some years ago, according to testimony, but she claims she never received notice of the action against her. He then married a Georgia schoolteacher with three children, it is said.

The plaintiff's attorneys hold that the Georgia divorce, if legal, could not affect alimony rights of the first wife in Ohio property, and they think they have shown that the bulk of Gledhill's holdings are in Ohio.

PROFIT TAKING MOVES MARKET

Industrials Unsettled; Coming of Triple Holiday Has Effect.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Industrial stocks were unsettled this morning by a small wave of profit taking and speculative selling which affected principally the leaders in the week's early advance. Vanadium and International Tel were again under fire as the result of the flare-up in the South American republic in which some of their properties are located. Coppers were also offered quite freely, Kennecott and Anaconda sinking again close to the year's low prices.

A "drive against the shorts" in the second hour resulted in good rallies in General Electric, U. S. Steel, Radio and other market favorites. The approach of the triple holiday had the natural effect of warding off outside buying of speculative stocks.

Recoveries and advances took place in all sections of the market in this period. General Electric was a strong leader around 73, the best price since the June break. Mack Trucks, at the head of the motors, jumped 3¾ to 60¾. American and Foreign Power led the utilities and sold up 1¼ at 77¼.

GRAIN PRICES ON DOWNGRADE

Drop Follows Show of Firmness at Start; Postponing Buying.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—Wheat and corn prices went down-grade today after some show of firmness at the start.

Many wheat traders here were apparently disposed to postpone new buying until after the peak of the Canadian wheat movement had passed Iowa reports that corn promised only half a crop furnished some basis for rallying power in the corn market.

Opening at ⅛c off to ⅛c up, wheat values later underwent a general setback. Corn started at ⅛c decline to 1-4c advance and subsequently underwent a sharp drop, but then scored gains.

Reports of frost in some parts of Canada had only a slight transient effect toward lifting wheat prices today, and so likewise did assertions of some likelihood of deterioration of that part of the French wheat crop now in elevators. An offset was an authoritative forecast that the world's wheat crop this season will be 224,000,000 bushels larger than last year if southern hemisphere countries continue to be favored with good weather. Meanwhile, the Canadian crop movement still remained largely in excess of last year's showing, today's arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg being 694 cars, against 404 at this time last year.

Price-rallies in the corn market after early setback helped wheat values to recover. Reports of heavy feeding of wheat to livestock were supplemented today by advices of increased early start of feeding of new corn. In this connection, a crop authority was out with a statement that because of poor grazing the corn market is facing likelihood of 13 months' feeding instead of a 12-month feeding year as it is becoming evident that there will be but comparatively few hogs and cattle sold at lightweights Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easy, influenced by downturns in the value of hogs.

TOUR CAVERNS

Scouts of Legion Troop Given Reward For Winning Jamboree.

Members of Boy Scout troop 5 of the American Legion were taken on a tour of the Ohio Caverns at West Liberty yesterday as a reward for winning the annual jamboree for scout troops of the Harding Area last June at Camp John A. Owens. The trip to the caverns was in the form of a mystery trip, the scouts having no idea of where they were going when they assembled at noon at the Legion Dug-out.

Troop committeemen of the Legion who were in charge of the trip were James W. Llewellyn, Clarence Bowe, Russell Snare, and F. G. Browne, scoutmaster of the troop.

Sixteen scouts made the trip, this number taking in practically the entire enrollment of the troop.

After making a complete trip through the caverns the scouts chose up sides and played a ball game on the diamond [illegible] of the caverns.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR MISSING AUTO

Man Hears Couple Quarreling, Five Shots Fired and Car Disappears.

CANTON, O., Aug. 28—Five shots fired in quick succession, apparently by one of two occupants of an automobile which was parked early this morning on Bolivar Road near a dairy company, furnished deputy sheriffs with a mystery which they were trying to solve today.

A workman employed at the dairy, while on his way to the plant at 5 a. m. passed a machine in which he saw a man and woman quarreling. He paid no further attention to the couple and proceeded on down the road about 500 feet when he heard a shot.

Looking back, he saw the gun flashes in the car and heard four additional shots. He drove to the dairy and reported the incident to his employers, who immediately notified Stark county officials.

Deputy sheriffs went to the scene and found five discharged shells on the ground near where the car had been parked. A wide search was instituted for the machine in the belief that one of the two occupants had been murdered.
